YOUR CHALLENGES

You want to provide your military service members with the best tools to smoothly transition to civilian life but face these challenges:

HOW WE HELP

We take a practical and immediately applicable approach to help service members effectively transition into their next career.

A compressed timeline.

70% of service members start TAP later than required, leaving TAP offices and branches with a compressed timeline to help¹

We work with each members' separation timeline, regardless of when they engage in TAP

A one-size-fits-all approach. While TAP programs provide comprehensive information, they fall short in providing individualized assistance tailored to each members' professional goals

We create a personalized and clear plan of action and coach service members through the job search, networking, and interview process to help them land the best job possible

Program knowledge gaps. TAP courses are typically taught by instructors who may not have the knowledge of different civilian industries

We make your service workforce feel supported and highly engaged through our learner-centered TAP courses taught by professionals from industry and government

"I really appreciated the passion, commitment, and delivery in setting us up for success. YourNext Jump's advice was very valuable. The topics were all relevant and lasered in on what's most important - resume, LI, interview. They hold participants to deliverables, provide the latest on job search tools, and make reference material available. Virtual meetings were proven possible in lieu of in person. Keep delivering! We owe it to Navy leaders departing the service."
